Hallowe'en appeared to be quite a successful institution with the youngsters this year—as always—but that their elders failed to get into the spirit of the occasion was evidenced by a noticeable lack of adult parties based on the witch-n-punkin' idea. Small wonder, however, when most of us are hard put to make a living, let alone find money for festivities of this nature.

Last night the writer, conscious of the fact that he was missing the first Hallowe'en celebration in years, felt an urge to gather together a few hardy souls and disport himself in the manner of yore. In the good days of our early youth parties and paper caps were not essential to a successful evening. Given a few not too securely anchored "out-houses," plenty of gates, cows, wagons, supplemented by a couple of dead skunks, and the world was ours. If the depression is still with us next year at this time—watch out! For, if no other entertainment is offered the elder youth of the vicinity, you are apt to find the family wash draped over the front of the American Trust company building.

One deplorable occurrence was witnessed last night by the writer—the hurling of tomatoes at passing automobiles. There is an element of danger in this practice which was made clear a year or two ago when one of our local grammar school teachers was nearly blinded by flying glass when a group of lads hurled tomatoes at the windshield of her car. Mild destruction is to be expected and condoned, but to chance sight and life itself is something else again.

And while the thought of life flits through the hazy editorial mind, we would like to call attention to the speed-demons who are at present using the local high school for their headquarters. Every noon a few of the lads unlimber their rickety steeds and make a race-track out of Campbell avenue. The other day we observed a race that reached its climax on Campbell avenue between Central and First when a lad in a light blue Chevrolet roadster, not too recent vintage, passed a contemporary at not less than 45 miles an hour.

It will be remembered that the grammar school children are released from classes a few minutes ahead of high school students, so at the time of this particular race, the main street was lined with little boys and girls, none of whom can be depended upon to keep out of the street. It is easy to visualize the scene had one of these youngsters chosen to cross the street in the path of these aforesaid student cars.

Despite their training at school and at home, the little fellows will often find the other side of the street more attractive, and will dash across to greener pastures. It is then that the motorist should be going slow enough, and have adequate braking power, to stop. And most of the ramshackle cars driven by students not only go too fast, but have little in the way of brakes.

We do not mean to imply that all student cars are junk, nor that all students are reckless drivers. There are, however, enough of both at large during the noon hour and after school to make one hesitate before crossing the street.

At one time the practice of student use of automobiles during the noon hour was frowned upon by local school authorities, and the present abuse of the noon-hour privilege may lead to a revival of

Sanfilippo Charged With Murder, To Be Heard Friday

Servio Sanfilippo, charged with the murder of Manuel McCorkle on Hamilton avenue the night of July 28, was arrested here last week on a warrant issued by Justice Chester W. Moore of San Jose, and lodged in the county jail where he is confined without opportunity of bail.

The preliminary hearing will be held in Moore's court Friday morning at 10 o'clock, when 14 witnesses, who were subpoenaed Monday evening, will appear to testify.

Deputy District Attorney Frank J. Waterhouse and Attorney Earl Girvin, special prosecutor and counsel for Mrs. McCorkle, will represent the state, and D. T. Jenkins will represent Sanfilippo.

JOHN CRUMMEY TO ADDRESS WATER MEET HERE TUES.

A small group will meet in Campbell Tuesday evening to discuss the progress made on the county-wide water conservation plan. John D. Crumme, champion of the water cause, will address the meeting. He will be possessed of facts concerning the attitude taken by the San Jose city council, with whom he is scheduled to meet this Monday evening.

There are rumors of opposition to the plan, which, if well-founded, will place heavy obstacles in the path of the conservation plan. These and other aspects of the case will be discussed here Tuesday.

The local chamber of commerce, meeting the same evening, will also take up this all-important subject. Members and non-members are urged to be present.

Hallowe'en Motif Used At Bridge Club Gathering

Mrs. Horace Lea entertained the members of her bridge club Thursday evening at her home on First street.

The house was appropriately decorated in keeping with the Hallowe'en season. Delicious refreshments were served at a large table centered with a huge pumpkin filled with nuts and fruit, flanked on either side by tall black tapers. Dishes and cover used were on the Hallowe'en motif.

Prize for high score was received by Mrs. E. W. Ohlen, and low score prize was won by Mrs. F. R. Anderson.

Enjoying the pleasant evening with Mrs. Lea were Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Julius Bachman, Mrs. Floyd Bohnett, Mrs. Richard Knappen, Mrs. Don McQueen, Mrs. Ohlen, Mrs. Bert Young, and Mrs. Earl Young.

Mrs. L. J. Carboni was honor guest recently at a birthday party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Terwilliger at San Martin. Mrs. Carboni's birthday was celebrated at a breakfast attended by a group of offriends and relatives which included Miss Helah Laird of Campbell.

Farm Recovery Conference Draws Regional Leaders

Farmers from every section of California will journey to Los Angeles on Nov. 9 and 10 to meet as part of the statewide recovery constate chamber of commerce.

Increasing agricultural commodity prices through controlled marketing, providing adequate farm credits through federal agencies, and obtaining necessary supplies of farm labor will feature the meeting of the farming groups, according to S. Parker Frisselle, chairman of the statewide agricultural committee of the state chamber of commerce.

"Agricultural codes and marketing agreements relating to citrus fruits, deciduous fruits, canning peaches, walnuts, dried fruits, to-kay grapes, livestock, and milk will be analyzed by representatives of these respective industries," Frisselle further states.

"The lessons learned from this year's experience with codes and agreements will be analyzed by F. R. Wilcox of the Giannini foundation, who will point out the strong and weak points which must be used as guide posts for ensuing years. It is expected that there will be present heads of the various units of the new agricultural credit administration, including federal land bank, intermediate credit bank, bank for cooperatives, and production credit bank. A number of rural bankers will join in the discussion of these financial policies, many of which are new and untried. The bank for cooperatives and the production credit bank have been created only recently, and there are many new functions for the federal land bank and the intermediate credit bank.

"A plan for handling farm labor in 1934 in order to avoid the serious losses and social disorders of the current year has been evolved and will be presented with comments from farmers in each of the six regions of the state."

Among the regional leaders who will take part in this far-reaching agricultural program are the following names, all familiar to local farmers: Frank Abernathy of Saratoga, Leroy Anderson of San Jose, L. R. Cody, San Jose, Hugh Hersman of Gilroy, John Leonard of Cupertino, V. T. McCurdy of Santa Clara, J. Q. Patton of San Jose, R. P. Van Orden of Mountain View, and Arch Wilson of Cupertino.

Horace Grewell Dies Suddenly At Home In Hollister

Coming as a distinct shock to his many friends in this community was the death in Hollister Tuesday night of Horace Grewell, former Campbell man, widely and favorably known hereabouts.

Mr. Grewell was at one time manager of the local branch of the Standard Oil company. He was active in civic affairs, and was a popular member of the Kiwanis club.

Death overtook Mr. Grewell as he prepared to depart from his home for a two weeks' vacation. He died of heart failure.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the parlors of Amos Williams in San Jose.

BUSINESS CODES DISCUSSED AT KIWANIS LUNCH

By Heck

The code and its relation to business was the subject of an instructive talk by W. A. Baylor, manager of the San Jose Merchants association. He stated that the code is a measure by which a fair competition is to be established in business. The rules of the code are man-made and subject to interpretation as such, but should tend to equalize advantages.

Mr. Baylor likened business men to two kinds of animals, the pest and the builder—the rat and the beaver. The one is a destructive creature, the other a benefactor, building for future welfare. The code, he said, will attempt to make all business men beavers, and eliminate the rat. Selfishness is one of the evils of competition which the code tries to alter.

The new deal, Mr. Baylor pointed out, is just another name and application of the old ideal as begun in Judea centuries ago under the slogan, "As ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so unto them."

Harry Smith acted as chairman. Among the visitors were Joe McKinnon, Bob Chandler, Roger Nash and Brother Schubert.

Ed Wiesendanger will be chairman next Tuesday.

DICK ROBINSON INJURES HAND IN AUTO ACCIDENT

An auto accident involving iDick Robinson, Campbell, and Mrs. B. Blessing, Willow Glen, was responsible for injuries sustained by Robinson at 7 o'clock last evening at Willow and Prevost streets.

Dick's car collided with the other machine as he turned into Prevost off Willow. Visibility was poor, he said, as he was being attended at the San Jose hospital by Dr. F. R. Anderson, who treated the lad for lacerations and a severed hand tendon.

Campbell will hold an initiation meeting Tuesday evening, Nov. 7. Mrs. Myrtle Johnson is chairman of the event. Preparatory drill work is on the program this evening.

Community Chest Drive Launched In Campbell Today

With today marking the start of the ten-day community chest campaign for funds, George S. Robson, manager of the drive, looks forward with confidence to a satisfactory conclusion of the solicitation period which ends Saturday evening, Nov. 11.

Seeking to raise $1,950, which will take care of local chest needs and also supply Campbell's portion of county chest funds, workers are everywhere meeting an attitude of sympathetic helpfulness which, in view of the general hard times, is indeed encouraging.

Aiding the drive in the several districts which comprise the Campbell community are a number of individuals and several organizations. In Cambrian district solicitation is being carried on by the Cambrian Home and School club, an exceptionally capable group; in Moreland district we find the ever-faithful Ed Wiesendanger and Ira Bogert on the job; Meridian is being worked by the grammar school P. T. A. and the Women's service club; San Tomas finds a true community leader at the helm—Wilbur Mitchell, who is teamed up with Frank A. Garside, retired steamship company official of considerable ability; Hamilton district is being combed by Lloyd Gardner, who is aided by another contingent of the Women's Service club, while Campbell itself is being solicited by the Country Woman's club, the Women's Service club, and the Kiwanis club.

This job of soliciting funds is a difficult one, Mr. Robson points out, and he expressed the hope that workers will continue to be met with cheerful smiles and whatever aid people are able to give.

LOCAL CONTRACTOR NEARS FINISH OF COYOTE CREEK JOB

Interest in the proposed water conservation program takes on added interest this week with the near-completion of the conservation district's dam on the Coyote, near Morgan Hill, which will be finished in time to store this winter's rains, according to Leroy Anderson, secretary of the district.

F. O. Bohnett, contractor in charge of the construction, is working two shifts of men numbering about 35 in all. The structure is known as a "movable" dam. It is 200 feet long, and will hold a head of water 12 feet in depth flooding approximately 25 acres. The dam is costing $25,000, $6,600 of which was secured from the government as a public works loan.

Supper at Union Club

Saturday evening, Nov. 4, the directors of the We and Our Neighbors club will serve a supper at the clubhouse on the Los Gatos-Almaden road. Tempting food and popular prices will feature the affair, the proceeds of which will be used in club work. Supper will be served from 6:30 to 8:30. Cards follow for those who care to remain. The public is invited to attend.

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR

Executive Secretary
Agricultural Council of California

Agriculture, in recent years, has developed ramifications and complexities which are a far cry from the simple fundamentals of planting, cultivating and harvesting of other days.

Even the dirt farmer who's "proud of it" no longer scorns the technicians of the industry—the experts who labor far from the fields, in offices and laboratories, to solve the myriad perplexities of modern agriculture.

Typifying the value of this technical work which goes on backstage is the "news behind the news" in recent decisions bearing on the state sales tax and its application to agriculture.

The state board of equalization, in this instance, announced the final results in the following ruling: "Gross receipts from the sale of feed to persons engaged in the business of selling dairy, poultry and livestock products are not taxable . . . If, however, the purchaser is not engaged in the business of selling dairy, poultry and livestock products, the gross receipts from the sales of feed to him are taxable."

That ruling saved California farmers many thousands of dollars—savings to which they were legally entitled, but which they might not have achieved, except for "experts."

Behind the scenes is a story of carefully weighed, judicious findings of tax experts, legal experts and—most important of all, from the farmer's standpoint—nutrition experts.

The sales tax act embodied the basic principle that the 2 1/2 per cent levy against sales should be applied but once. In other words, the act barred pyramiding or double taxation.

California farmers, through their state-wide organizations, immediately set up the contention, both before the legislature and before the board of equalization, that a tax on feedstuffs in most instances would be double taxation, inasmuch as the farmer's products—produced by the feedstuffs—would be taxable when sold on the market.

There were a good many who scoffed at this contention, but the farmer, fortunately, was able to prove his case by hard, scientific facts, gathered by nutrition experts over a long period of years.

Clinching the contention that it can be accurately determined how much feed goes into eggs, milk, meat, etc., Dr. Edwin C. Voorhies of the economics division of the college of agriculture, established that the feed requirements of a 1,000-pound cow practically double when she comes into milk production.

Producing 22 pounds of milk, 50 per cent of the cow's feed will be used for maintenance and 50 per cent for the production of milk, he demonstrated. When the same cow jumps its milk production to 33 pounds, 60 per cent of the feed goes into milk and only 40 per cent into maintenance. And if the cow gives 44 pounds of milk, 80 per cent of her feed is transformed into milk, with only 20 per cent required for maintenance.

Shifting to hogs, Dr. Voorhies proves that about five pounds of digestible food are required per 1,000 pounds of live weight for maintenance. But if 100 to 150-pound hogs are being fattened for market, about 35 pounds of feedstuffs are required for each 1,000 pounds live weight—indicating that approximately 30 pounds of feed will become meat. Ordinarily, he reports, 85 per cent of the feed given to hogs is required to produce pork chops, roasts, bacon, sausages and other table delicacies.

Another nutrition expert enters the field in the person of Dr. W. E. Newlon, poultry extension specialist, when the relative requirements of chickens and eggs are considered.

With hens in 50 per cent production—a comparatively low average for California—Dr. Newlon reports that 43 per cent of the hen's feed goes into making eggs for American breakfasts.

The next meeting of the club will be next Thursday, Nov. 9, at the hall. Mrs. Mary Brown and Mrs. June Rice will have charge of arrangements for the day.

It was with these and similar data—the work of nutrition experts and other technicians of the farming industry—that California farm representatives proved their contention, and won their case for feedstuffs' exemption under the sales tax, with a resultant saving to virtually every farmer in the state.

Nobody questions the nourishing and health-building value of milk. Yet here is a remarkable fact: One tablespoonful of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil contains more vitamin A than does a whole quart of milk.

"A" is the vitamin so vitally needed in the human system for tissue building and particularly to resist "colds" and other ills.

In addition, Scott's Emulsion is rich in vitamin D—especially valuable for building strong bones and sound teeth in growing children. Youngsters take it eagerly—it's so pleasant—and so easy for the stomach to digest. Try it! Use it regularly and note the results. All druggists—60c and $1.20.

LOCAL BASEBALL TEAM LOSES TO CENTERVILLE SUN.

That the Campbell ball club had another losing game in its system was proved Sunday when they lost to Centerville here 1 to 5. It was a gusty day on the diamond, and the fog-like dust may have had something to do with the defeat. Breck Reed, catcher, admitted that the boys were not on their toes.

A survey of the box score reveals the fact that Campbell, 31 times at bat, gathered in but eight hits for a total of one run; Centerville, on the other hand, out of 32 times at bat, made but seven hits, out of which 5 tallies were scored.

One thing just naturally seems to lead to another. Schools: There was some talk recently of availing the Campbell union district of government aid in the construction of a new high school. As long as the federal recovery administration is dishing out funds for public works, it was suggested that Campbell get on the band wagon. The plan had a good chance, too, judging from the source of considerable assenting comment. What happened? Who spiked the guns?

Anent the foregoing, may we refer you to the first "story" in Atlantic Monthly for October? There in an anonymous Chicago school teacher, in a spasmodic diary, reveals the true state of educational affairs in that city. Living a debt-ridden, hunger-shadowed existence, she and many of her kind carried on without pay while a "benevolent" citizens' committee worked quietly to wreck the educational structure of Chicago. The committee quite thoroughly represents private interests and special privi-ege, and the school board is composed of illiterate ward-healers.

Elective courses have been cast out of city schools in a move to economize, while Chicago banks refuse to pay their taxes. Graft, selfishness, greed, mismanagement—and through it all an undercurrent of starvation, not unmixed with smoke from the rich cigars of the big-hearted citizens' committee.

If you would have your blood boil for a half hour or so, if you would see how private interests are seeking to reduce the national educational system to the three R's, get last month's Atlantic at the library, or elsewhere, and read the diary yourself.

Housewives Quickly Note Missing Item in Modernly Equipped Kitchen

Many women visitors to A Century of Progress Exposition were filled with envious admiration of this completely equipped modern kitchen.

A telephone which attracted a lot of attention on the opening day of A Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago did so because—it wasn't there!

The absence of the telephone was due to a series of last-minute circumstances, and it was thought at the time that no one would notice it. But those who were in charge of the H. J. Heinz Company's exhibit at the Exposition didn't know the American housewife of today as well as they thought they did.

Colored Instrument Installed

The exhibit showed a series of replicas of kitchens in other lands and in earlier times, contrasted with the attractive and well-equipped kitchen of 1933. As originally featured, this kitchen contained a conveniently located extension telephone, of special color to harmonize with the decorative scheme of the room. But within an hour of the opening of the exhibit, the telephone mysteriously disappeared.

Someone had "lifted" it, and there wasn't sufficient time to procure another instrument of exactly the right shade. Rather than to make use of a black telephone, even temporarily, it was decided to wait for a new instrument of the proper color, it being figured out that with so much to see, especially on the opening day, the absence of the telephone would hardly be noticed.

It "Belonged" There

However, such proved to be far from the case. Before the substitute instrument arrived there was a flood of comments and inquiries. "Your modern kitchen certainly looks complete—except that it should have an extension telephone," commented one alert housewife. "Would not a telephone be convenient in a kitchen of 1933?" asked another. "You have a radio but no telephone!" objected a third. And there were dozens and scores of others who asked bluntly, "Where's the telephone?"

The number and frequency of the inquiries were convincing evidence that, whatever may be the things one may safely omit from a modern kitchen, the telephone is not one of them.

Dance Slated for Friday, Nov. 10th

Friday night, Nov. 10, the Campbell Baseball club will sponsor a dance at the high school annex directly after the basketball games at the local gym. Good music has been secured for the event, and it is hoped that a good crowd will turn out.

At their last dance here the boys were slightly taken aback by the fact that not a single resident of Campbell showed up for the affair. Enough out of town folks appeared, however, to keep the show out of the red.
